Have your website designed by the experts at XPress PC Repair! Here are some links to a few of our designs.

When Automatic Racing needed a face-lift on their outdated website, they came to XPress PC Repair. We developed an easily manageable solution for them to post pictures of their races, as well as update their fans with the latest news quickly. We also added a forum for them so their fans would be able to interact with the drivers and crew. Finally, we added a store to allow them to sell Automatic Racing merchandise.

They are now able to post their own articles, and change their content at will, without the need for costly web design services, and they can now post their latest news as it happens, instead of having to wait a week or so until the web designers could get to it.

The St. Lucie Business Network was also experiencing the same problems of updating their website as Automatic Racing. We custom designed a solution for them, giving them expanded capabilities on member management. We also added a calendar so they can post meeting details, and event details as soon as they are booked, keeping both the membership and prospective members apprised of all upcoming events. The mass mail feature allows them to send email to all their members with only a few mouse clicks.

Coupon Clipper - PMBS came to us with a unique request. They wanted their front page to be available to display banners and links for their advertisers. Xpress PC Repair delivered! With a banner management system, their advertisers get weekly reports on ad displays and clicks! Check them out, and advertise with their extensive network of websites.

Michael Macrina Architect wanted a simple yet sleek website to advertise his business and portfolio. Our design allowed him to showcase his designs in a simple manner that really emphasized his product. In addition, he is able to put his latest designs online himself, eliminating the need to contact our support team, and allowing him to have an up to date web site all the time. Have a look at some of the beautiful architectural designs he's created.
